combit develops Report Server Windows app

Access reports from the combit Report Server even faster with the combit Report Server Windows app.

Constance, Germany, 08/13/2015 – The software manufacturer combit has developed a Windows app for its Business Intelligence solution combit Report Server, which allows users to easily and quickly access reports from their Windows desktops and tablet PCs. The app is compatible with Windows 8.1 and the newly released Windows 10. In conjunction with the Enterprise Edition of the combit Report Server 2.0, numerous features are available all at once: With just a single click, you can, for example, pin the most important reports to the Windows Start menu, allowing you to access them even quicker. Furthermore, it has a convenient search function for reports. Also, it makes viewing reports as well as exporting them in PDF format a breeze. The app can be downloaded for free from the Windows App Store, and is available in German and English.

"We constantly strive to remain a step ahead in our development. With the Windows app for the combit Report Server, our business intelligence solution can now be used even more flexibly, and our customers benefit from its user-friendliness," states the satisfied Development Head for the combit Report Server, Alexander Horak.
